Sonny Averona Jr. and Johnny Bones Show

Sonny Averona Jr., is a singer and entertainer with the vocal styling of Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin & Rat Pack material. Sonny, originally from South Philadelphia, is following in the footsteps of his father, the late-great entertainer, Sonny Averona Sr. In 1992, father & son were profiled in the entertainment section of the New York Times. Sonny Averona Jr. has appeared at the New York's Apollo Theater and worked with singer Ben E. King and with former heavyweight boxing champion "Smokin" Joe Frazier. In addition to his live appearances Sonny has also been featured in CBS TV's Street Stories with Ed Bradley and had his own TV variety show on WWAC Channel 53 in Atlantic City.

Johnny Bones also born and raised in South Philadelphia is a magician and comedic performer. As in so many partnership stories, Johnny met Sonny while he was performing at a show. With Johnny's love of the classic days of stage entertainment the partnership was a very natural one.

Today Sonny Averona Jr. and Johnny Bones are delighting audiences from Wildwood to Chicago at concerts, shows, festivals, casinos, corporate events, weddings and other venues.
